BOSTON MORNING POST.

TUESDAY, AUGUST 8, 1837.

—We know of no paper that always says exactly the right thing of its friends and foes, but the BOSTON MORNING POST—a racy, high mettle, dauntless journal, published by Beals & Greene, in the City of Boston, and Commonwealth of Massachusetts; "God save it!" as Governor Everett says at the end of his turkey-killing Proclamations.

When papers, generally, undertake to give a man the touch damatory, they accuse him of all degrees of evil and meanness, and forget entirely the time-honored advice—

"Keep probability in view
Lest your tale be deemed untrue."

They were down upon Mr. Benjamin awhile ago in this kind of style because he was suspected of having nudged Mr. Willis a little in the Corner and Enquirer—but after all it appeared that the gentleman was innocent of the offence so heinous in their eyes. Mr. Benjamin is a man possessed of genius and talents—he is ardent and enthusiastic in his temperance, but not one grain of cold malice lurks in his composition—he expresses his opinions upon all subjects with perfect freedom and boldness—sometimes hastily—and often with a warmth and decision which the subject would hardly seem of sufficient consequence to excite; yet, if in error, he is easily convinced of it, and the first to acknowledge his mistake. We have scolded Mr. B. pretty severely ourselves, sometimes, but then we are unwilling to see every ill-natured thing that appears in a paper notorious for its profligacy and malignity, attributed to the pen of one whose bosom is as free as light from any low or revengeful feeling.

The New York Star admires Mr. Willis—so do we, for the excellent qualities of his heart—for his gentlemanly bearing—his fidelity in friendship—his enterprise—his honorable industry and ambition, and his rich genius—but, according to our notion, the Star appears rather ridiculous in announcing, in a grave and important manner, that it is reported "he intends to build a house of brick, with octagon wings!" somewhere in the State of New York.

—The following remarks of a Western paper are worthy the attention of the Eastern Press:—

"We are surprised that the Eastern papers whose circulation reaches the continent of Europe and the British Isles, do not frequently make the suggestion with respect to European emigration to this country, that the true plan for emigrants is to shape their course directly for Western America; this can be easily done by changing the season of emigration, leaving their homes in winter instead of summer, and coming to New Orleans instead of any of the Eastern ports—many, very many advantages would be gained by this plan—the cause of just complaint arising from the overwhelming influx of pauper emigration into the Eastern States would be removed, and the condition of the emigrants themselves greatly bettered—the valley of the Mississippi would be opened to them upon their arrival in Orleans, and a reciprocal benefit would accrue, the labor of these poor hardy strangers would benefit the country and their industry be immediately recompensed by the productiveness of the fertile and unimproved regions.—Do, Editors of the East, take the hint and you will be serving your own section of the country as well as the Western World considerably."

Joseph Gillott's patent elongated metallic pens are the best articles of the kind that we have used. He manufactures every description—Patent Magnum Bonum Commercial Pen—Original Patent Slip Pen—do do Ladies Pen—with elongated Points, &c. &c. We went back to the quill, sometime ago, after trying almost every variety of metallic pens in the market, satisfied that no pens were equal to those produced by Gillott & Co.; but having come across Mr. Gillott's, we have again enlisted, as every good democrat should, under the "metallic" banner.

"God save the Queen."—The new version of the British "National Anthem," now going the rounds of the papers, is flat and prosaic to the last degree—Salem Gazette.

It's stuff to catch gudgeons with!—Bunkerhill Aurora.

—We don't wonder that the whigs snap at it then.—Boston Post.

There has been a small riot at Lockport, N. Y. The selectmen forbid the performances of a circus company, while a large number of the inhabitants insisted upon their "going ahead." There was a general row, but no other performance.

—The following toast was drunk in Mississippi, on the 4th of July, by J. F. Dowdy:—

"Gen. Samuel Houston, a Texian Caesar, who has fought the fight of giants, won the victory of victories, led captivity captive, conquered the conqueror, a parallel of Napoleon."

Dowdy enough.

—The Editor of the New York Gazette doesn't believe in the existence of our Sea Serpent—if he'll come on here, he shall have a ride on his back round Nantucket.

Abdication.—Our friend Boyden has retired from the Tremont House, and is succeeded by two excellent young gentlemen, Messrs Leverett and Tucker. The house will revive again.

Mr. George Jones delivered a discourse at Hartford on the 4th inst. in reply to an attack upon the Drama and its Professors, pronounced (May, 1837) at Hartford Centre Church, by the Rev Mr. Turebull.

The amount of revenue which accrued at this port during the last month, July, was $294,391. During the same time last year, it was $312,276—decrease, $217,885.

Fashion.—Square-toed shoes and balloon sleeves disappeared at the same time in Europe.

Willie's new tragedy, "Bianca," is to be produced at the Park in the course of a few weeks.

Forty men, out of a crew of forty-five, lately died on board of an English whaling vessel with the scurvy.

From the New York Sunday News.

TWO DAYS LATER FROM LONDON. Half past twelve o'clock, P. M.

By the packet ship Montreal, we last night received the London Times of June 27th, from which we subjoin the following most important items:—

In the House of Commons, yesterday, (26th) on motion of Lord John Russell, the following resolution was read and carried: "That a select committee be appointed to inquire into the mode of granting and renewing leases of the landed and other property of the bishops, deans and chapters, and other ecclesiastical bodies of England and Wales, and into the probable amount of any increased value which might be obtained by an improved management, with a due consideration to the interests of the established church, and of the present lessees of such property."

The House then went into a committee of supply, and discussed the miscellaneous estimates. The items, for the most part, were voted without a division.

An interview had taken place between the queen dowager and the princess Victoria, which is described as having been of the most gratifying nature.

The accounts from the country are remarkably favorable as regards the approaching harvest.

The cotton and money markets remained about the same as by previous advices.

The same paper remarks that arrangements for the queen's household are considerably advanced.

The following is the prevalent gossip:—

The duchess of Sutherland, as mistress of the robes, stands at the head of queen Victoria's family. The marchioness of Lansdowne holds the office, somewhat curiously entitled, in her ladyship's case, "groom of the stole," yet such we believe to be the tradition of it, so at least was it in the days of Anne. Subordinate to these two distinguished ladies of the bedchamber, two of whom were stated yesterday to have been nominated in the persons of the marchioness of Tavistock and lady Charlemont. Two maids of honor have likewise been appointed, viz: Miss Pitt (daughter of Lord Rivers), and the bishop of Rochester's daughter, Miss Murray. To none of these promotions, or appointments, has, so far as concerns the individual merits or qualities of the noble personages who have obtained them, can any shadow of just objection be stated.

The choice of lady Lansdowne, as a member of the royal household, the Times objects to, as being the wife of a member of a whig O'Connell cabinet.

The Paris papers of Sunday are destitute of domestic importance. The king and royal family proceeded, on Saturday, to Neuilly for a brief sojourn.

The proceedings in the chambers had lost nearly all their interest for foreigners.

The editor of L'Europe, a legitimist paper, was, on Saturday last, acquitted of an alleged libel on the government, in an article respecting the late dreadful occurrence at the Champ de Mars.

It appears that the due de St. Leu (Louis Bonaparte), ex-king of Holland, is dangerously ill. The ridiculous article which put forward the pretensions of his nephew (the son of Jerome Bonaparte) to the hand of our queen, and so ignorantly claimed for him relationship with her majesty in the degree of first cousin, is, strange to say, adopted in the papers before us.

Accounts from Algiers to the 15th instant had reached Paris. Their contents showed that the peace concluded between Abd-el-Kader and General Bugeaud was about being realized. The French were retiring into their garrisons, and the Arabs returning to their ordinary pursuits.

The foreign intelligence in those papers is not more important than their domestic concerns.

A letter from St. Sebastian, dated June 18, repeats the alleged victory of baron de Meer. The arrangements for paying the arrears due to the late British Legion, and of the bounty money to the soldiers who had volunteered into the new brigade, remained nearly stock still. It was reported in St. Sebastian that the Carlists were again in great force in that quarter, and that the Bilbao was about to be again menaced by them.

The health of the emperor of Austria is said to have become exceedingly precarious.

The Gazette of Augsburg draws a frightful picture of the dearth prevailing in Egypt, attributed to the substitution of the culture of cotton for grain, by order of Mehmet Ali, who is not in a condition to pay his troops without a recourse to a forced loan.

The Smyrna Journal, of the 9th ult. reports the plague to have reached its period of decline.

A spirit of discontent is said to pervade the inhabitants and army of occupation of Poland.

The prevalence of the cholera in Naples continued about the same.

Jokes, Anecdotes, &c.—During a debate in the English House of Commons, Burke animatedly and strongly on some act of the Cabinet, when George Onslow started up and said, haughtily, that he must call the honorable member to a sense of his duty, and that no man should be suffered in his presence, to insult the Sovereign. Burke listened, and when Onslow had disburdened himself of his loyalty, gravely addressed the Speaker. "Sir, the honorable member has exhibited much ardour but little discrimination. He should know that, however I may reverence the King, I am not at all bound, nor at all inclined to extend that reverence to his Ministers. I may honor his Majesty, but, Sir, I can see no possible reason for honoring him, and he glanced round the Treasury bench, "his Majesty's man servant and mail-servant, his ox and his ass?"

A fellow once exhibited a skull at a fair near London, as a skull of Oliver Cromwell. A gentleman observed that it was too small for Cromwell, who had a large head, and died almost an old man. "I know all that," said the exhibitor, undisturbed, "but you see, sir, this was his skull when he was a boy."

The late George Lamb, the brother of Lord Melbourne, had been returned member from Westminster, and was remarked for his prodigality of smiles on the occasion. At the next election, when matters were going against him, he was all gloom. "What is the matter with Lamb this time?" asked some one, "he makes no light of it, like the last election." "Recollect half a dozen years ago," said the answer, "and a lamb is always more sheepish the older he grows."

A constable was stationed at the door of the hustings to prevent the crowd from forcing their way among the candidates. A gentleman came up to him, and putting a shilling into his hand, said, with an attempt to put off the smallness of the donation, "I take it for granted there is a little corruption here?" "Yes, sir," said the constable, looking at the shilling, "but this is too little."

"I have just come from calling on De Roos" (the person lately detected in cheating at cards by marking them), said Lord Sefton; "he was not at home, and I left my card."

"Did you mark it?" was the question.

"Mark it? No," said Lord Sefton.

"Well, then, you may be assured, De Roos will not take it for an honor."

A man is an emigrant when he leaves, and an immigrant when he arrives in a country, says Col. Stone.

Rumpus.—We learn that on Thursday some of the workmen, say about twenty or thirty, on the Lancaster and Haringburg railroad, took passage in the car from the last named place to go to the field where the stages carry the passengers round the unfinished tunnel. When the passengers attempted to get into the stages, the laborers took possession of them although they had not paid to go farther, and refused to give place to those who had; among whom were several ladies. This caused some dispute, and a fight took place; in which the agent, in defending the rights of the passengers, suffered considerably. The ring-leaders were taken, and conveyed to Lancaster yesterday.—U. S. Gaz.

POLICE COURT.

A Widow in Search of a Wife.—What a caption for an assault and battery case!—An elderly lady, named Bridget M'Grand, charged Ryan O'Donnell with knocking her down near the market, on Saturday night.

Clerk—What say you to this complaint, Ryan O'Donnell?

Ryan—All I've to say is just this—if she swears to it, I'm satisfied, but I have no knowledge of the thing at all.

Court—Stand up Bridget M'Grand, and tell us if this is the man that assaulted you.

Bridget—Indeed, I do not know that he is the man that struck me.

Court—What do you know, then?

Bridget—All I know is, that I was knocked down, and hurt very much, but I did not see the man that did it.

Court—Does any body know?

Bridget—Yes, Mr. Brown, there, sitting down.

Court—Please to stand up, Mr. Brown, and tell us what you saw of this assault.

Mr. Brown—As I and another gentleman was standing on the market step, O'Donnell, who was pretty well in for it, ran against us. He then crossed the street, and ran right into this woman, and either pushed or knocked her down; and we picked her up, and secured him. His hand was raised towards her.

Court—What have you to say to this?

Ryan—That I saw nothing of the woman till they laid hold of me.

Court—What business do you follow?

Ryan—I'm a hard working man.

Court—Where do you work?

Ryan—Nowhere at this present time.

Court—Have you any money?

Ryan—None at this present time of asking.

Court—Is there any due you?

Ryan—A thrifle.

Court—Have you any wife.

Ryan—Not just at this time.

Court—Did you ever have a wife?

Ryan—O, yes indeed; but she's dead this some time; but I hope to get another soon by the help of God.

Court—What do you mean by getting a wife by the help of God?

Ryan—Why, sure, your Honor doesn't suppose that I can get one without, do ye?

Court—Certainly. It does not require any special interposition of Providence for a man to get a wife in these times—especially an Irishman, judging from what we see in this Court daily.

Ryan—O, yer Honor, indeed, it's very hard now-a-days, to get a right sincere and sensible woman for a wife.

Court—So it ought to be hard for such as you to get a sincere and sensible one; and if I knew there was any danger of it, I'd certainly warn her against you. At present I shall fine you $3.00, and costs, and you can send to the man that owes you to pay your fine.

Ryan—Thank yer Honor, it's much better to be fined than to be sent to the House of Correction, to my sarin knowledge.

Compliments of Court.—One Arnold H. Sawyer was brought to answer to David A. Cady, for openly and violently stealing a two dollar bill from David Still, the said bill being the property of said Cady. When the cause was called, Cady was non est, and David Still took the stand.

Court—Is your name Still, sir?

David—[After some attitudinizing]—I believe it is.

Court—Do n't you know whether it is your name or not?

David—Well, then, I know, sir—your Honor, I mean.

Court—What do you know about this robbery?

David—I know it is no such thing.

Court—What! Mr. Cady stated that the prisoner snatched the bill out of your hands, and ran off with it.

David—O, yes, I know well enough what the gentleman said—I sat by here while he was talking; but I tell you there was no snatching about it, nor running. I let Sawyer have the bill to go and get it changed.

Court—Let Cady be brought in. [Reid finds Cady, and brings him in. His hair cut like a doctored horse-tail, but long enough to over shadow his eyes.—Bets offered freely, four to one, that he had not scraped acquaintance with a razor since the 1st of May, nor smelt soap or water for a month.—Bets not taken.—Cady mounts the stand.]

Court—Cady, your witness still says that Sawyer did not snatch the bill from him.

Cady—He does, does he. Well, I'll tell you how it was. Some months ago, I lent Sawyer three dollars in silver, but I have never seen a cent of it since, nor him till I met him at the National House yesterday, when he said he would pay me, if I would treat. I said I only had a bill, and they would n't change that at the bar. He said I could get it changed somewhere. So I gave it to Still, and asked him to get it changed. He took it in his hand, and looked at it, and Sawyer laid hold of it, and cut.

Court—What do you mean by "cut?"

Cady—Why, he dug.

Court—What is "dug?"

Cady—He would n't stand.

Court—What does that mean?

Cady—That he ran off; and we waited for a long time for him to come back. I went after him, and when I came up with him, he blowed me up, and said he could not pass the bill because it was a counterfeit. I told him that I should like to have the bill whether it was a counterfeit or not.

Court—Was it a counterfeit bill?

Cady—No; no more a counterfeit than I am; and I found out, after going to three or four bar-rooms, that a bar-keeper to whom he owed fifty cents had changed it for him, keeping back the fifty cents; and I finally found him buying nuts and sweetmeats, with which he filled his pockets. He told again, and was going to run away, but I told him if he moved a peg I'd raise the cry of stop thief. He then stopped, and I called Mr. Reid who took him to jail.

Court—Let Mr. Still take the stand again. [Still takes the stand, flings back the lapels of his coat on his shoulders, advances the right foot, places both his hands on the rail with an emphasis, and raises his head to its utmost elevation—the very pinnacle of his person—so that the top of his head does not lack more than two inches of being full five feet from the floor. He seems highly delighted with himself, and smiles superciliously, which makes the Court say—Still, have you not taken of alcohol this morning? Still blushes, laughs, and holds down his head.]

Court—Still, do you mean to say, that you consented that Sawyer should take that bill to get changed.

Still—Yes, I do.

Court—Then of course he could not have stolen it from Cady, and it is you who are answerable for the value of the bill. The fact is, you were all employed in going round to get people to sell liquor on the Sabbath against law; and I have no doubt did get drunk, and that is the habit of all of you. Let the prisoner be discharged.

Daniel Hook had sold every article of furniture to raise rum, and had actually reduced his family to starvation; and to crown his conduct, on Sunday evening he threatened to kill them all, and actually attempted to hang one of his children. Before this he had shamefully beaten his wife because she could not get him some rum on tick.

Court—What do you say to this, Hook?

Hook—I suppose that if there was no rum to be got ticks would be better.

Court—Do you suppose that you could avoid rum if you were where it could be obtained?

Hook—I suppose I should get at, wherever it could be found.

Court—I must sentence you to the House of Correction for four months.

Hook—What for the first time?

Court—Yes; you are an unfeeling, brutal man.

Melitable Butler.—Celebrated in former days for being the donor of the Peacock, had been out of the House of Correction just long enough to get a tidy suit of clothes, and then was sent back for another six months.

Mr. J. F. Pulsifer requests us to say that the fire at his house corner of Suffolk place and Washington street, on Sunday morning last, did not originate in the kitchen, but in the dining room, and it is supposed to be the work of an incendiary.

Senator Tallmadge, of New York, having written a letter to the Editor of the Albany Argus, in which he approves of a credit system properly restricted, and discommences the idea of an exclusively metallic currency, the Federal Editors are chucking at the existence of a supposed division in the democratic ranks. They reckon without their host. Whatever difference of opinion is found among prominent individuals as to the details by which the proposed end is to be accomplished, we apprehend there is a perfect unanimity of feeling among democrats in relation to the present banking system—that what is right should be sustained, and what is wrong corrected or removed. They go for limiting, curtailing, and securely binding down the banking corporations of the country to their proper place—while the whigs seek to double the already gigantic power of the Banks, by erecting in their midst a Monarch Bank, and enthroning the money power above the reach and control of the people."

Painful and Fatal Accident.—A man in the employment of the Philadelphia Ice Company, by the name of John Irwin, was instantaneously killed yesterday morning, about six o'clock, in the following manner:—He was driving a horse that was drawing two cars containing 3 tons of ice. When near Fountain Green, the horse was alarmed by the approach of the locomotive and jumped from the track. Irwin either fell or jumped off, it is not known which, and fell across the track, when both cars, with their immense weight of upwards of 13000 lbs. of ice in addition to the weight of the cars, went across his body, causing his death immediately.

It is but a few weeks since the superintendent of this company was killed, by a fall in the ice house.—U. S. Gaz.

The Tremont was opened last night for the first time this season—the house was full, and all the old members of the company most heartily welcomed upon the boards again; when Mrs. and Mr. Barrett appeared, the theatre was shaken by the applause. The performances went off with much spirit; Mr. Manager Barry was very warmly greeted upon his appearance in the afterpiece. He is very popular with the audience, and deservedly so—may he find a reward for his labours in a prosperous season.

The National was filled to see those marvellous folks, the Ravals, last night—they will appear again this evening. Mr. Pelby is determined that nothing shall lag about his premises.

The Lion is under good sail—Eaton is playing some of his best characters admirably, up there.

No alteration in the list of Banks not received at the Suffolk Bank.

MECHANICS' FAIR.—To be held in FANEUIL HALL, and QUINCY HALL, in September next.

The Board of Managers of the MECHANICS' FAIR, which commences in Boston on Monday, the 18th of September, and extends to the 1st of October, at Mechanics, Artisans, and Manufacturers throughout the country, that the City Authorities have kindly granted them the use of Faneuil Hall, and that Messrs. Livermore & Kendall, the Lessees of Quincy Hall, have politely relinquished for a few weeks one half of the extensive rooms to be used for the objects of the Fair.

Mr. THOMAS BOYD, has been appointed by the Managers, General Superintendent of the Fair, and may be found daily at Quincy Hall, to receive and register all articles sent in; and he will cause them to be so arranged as to give every visitor an opportunity of judging of the respective merits of each. It is the intention of the Managers to have a Steam Engine placed in Quincy Hall, which will put in operation such ingenious Machines as may be offered for premium or exhibition. Grates, Stoves, Cooking Ranges, Furnaces, &c. will be deposited at Quincy Hall, and may be put in operation if desired by the inventors.

As many persons have erroneously supposed that this Fair was organized for "Charitable" purposes, the Managers take this occasion to state, that at the close of the exhibition, the owners of all articles offered will have the privilege of withdrawing them, or disposing of them at private or public sale, as may be most agreeable to themselves.

PROPOSALS FOR INDIAN RIFLES.

Office Indian Affairs, July 21, 1837.
SEAL 30 PROPOSALS will be received at this office until the 12 o'clock, M., on the first day of September next, for furnishing, for the use of Congress, Indians.

4,500 RIFLES.
The proposals must be endorsed "Proposals for furnishing Indian Rifles," and must be accompanied by a pattern gun of each kind proposed to be furnished.

The rifles wanted are such as have heretofore been furnished to emigrating Indians. They may be described, in general terms, as carrying balls of which a pound of lead will make not less than forty-five, not more than one hundred; and must be of a length and weight corresponding properly with the size of the ball. Each gun to be accompanied by model, wiper, and such other implements as are necessary to make a complete equipment.

Each rifle to be enclosed in a first rate wooden case, securely packed in strong boxes, with not less than twenty, nor more than twenty-five in each box.
One third to be delivered in six, one third in nine, and the remaining third in twelve months from the day of closing the contract. They must be delivered in New York, Philadelphia, or Baltimore, or at such other city or town as may be determined on by this office, and will be rigidly and thoroughly inspected, and proved by an officer of the same department, they will not be received, unless they conform in all respects to the patterns.

The right to increase or diminish the number of rifles to be furnished, or to reject any of the bids, if deemed too high, is reserved. The bid or bids, which may, under all the circumstances, be best for the Government, will be accepted.

Bids for any number not less than 500 will be received. Contracts will be entered into, and bonds, with satisfactory security for their faithful fulfillment, on the part of the contractor, will be required. Each bid must be accompanied by the names of the persons proposed as securities. If not known to this office, their sufficiency must be satisfactorily established.

C. A. HARRIS, Commissioner.
The bids and pattern guns will be examined and compared, and the proposals decided on at this office, on or before the 1st day of October next. In this examination and comparison, an officer of the Ordnance Department will assist. Before any rifles are received, they will be rigidly and thoroughly inspected, and proved by an officer of the same department, they will not be received, unless they conform in all respects to the patterns.

The right to increase or diminish the number of rifles to be furnished, or to reject any of the bids, if deemed too high, is reserved. The bid or bids, which may, under all the circumstances, be best for the Government, will be accepted.

Bids for any number not less than 500 will be received. Contracts will be entered into, and bonds, with satisfactory security for their faithful fulfillment, on the part of the contractor, will be required. Each bid must be accompanied by the names of the persons proposed as securities. If not known to this office, their sufficiency must be satisfactorily established.

C. A. HARRIS, Commissioner.

ADAMS'S PATENT

THE subscriber has on hand a good assortment of the Swallow Brand Alarm Clocks, which, for comfort and convenience is undoubtedly the best article yet invented. Its chief peculiarity is that of the Swallow Brand, and the effect of which is to produce a gentle, elastic, and effective vibration against its ringing. They are easily set up or taken down, and may be saved in case of fire as easily as any other piece of furniture, and from its mode of construction less liable to harbor insects than any other kind; but above all its advantages, the clock is constructed so that, in all its sacking, by being made and kept elastic by means of the Swallow Brand, (the form of which is exhibited in the above cut.)

Orders thankfully received, and promptly attended to.

BENJAMIN LORING & CO., 122 State street, have just received from the Gambia, from London, a new article of the Steel Pen, manufactured by Perry and Co., the original inventor of this most wonderful improvement.

Patent Perryan Regulating Spring Pen.—The flexibility given to this pen by the flat spring is superior to that found in the best quill; it may be made harder or softer, by placing the pen higher or lower in the holder, will write on any sort of paper with the greatest freedom, and never fatigues the hand.

Patent Perryan Regulating Spring Pen.—The novel invention, by means of the regulating spring, commands all the ease and freedom of the best quill; it may also be made harder or softer, to suit the hand or taste of the writer, by simply moving the spring higher or lower, according to the degree of flexibility required.

Patent Perryan Elastic Pen Holder, with appropriate Pens.—The novel construction of the elastic holder, confers in the Penholder perfect security, by imparting an elastic softness and flexibility, rendering it so perfectly unrestrained in its action, that it never fatigues the hand, and enables it to pass over any description of paper with ease and expedition.

Patent Perryan India Rubber Spring Pen.—This novel application of Caoutchouc effects an extraordinary elasticity in the patent pen, and its advantages over the quill must be universally acknowledged.

Patent Perryan Fountain Pen.—Warranted to write more than fifty lines with one dip of ink.

Double Patent Perryan Pen, with a patent elastic holder.—This instrument has obtained for the inventor two Patents from His Britannic Majesty, and also two patents from His Majesty the King of the French, and is used in more than thirty government offices.

B. L. & Co. have also on hand twenty other kinds of patent pens, direct from the manufacturers.

ERADICATOR.
DR. LESAGE'S SPECIFIQUE FOR SCALDS, SCALDS, MALADIES, or "Gonorrhea Eradicator." The above remedy for the most distressing disease incident to the human race, originated from the enlightened mind of the eminent Dr. Lesage, the promulgator and success of which throughout the kingdoms of France and Italy, has, of late years, added such high honors to the already highly honored name of the inventor. This composition unites safety with efficiency. And the general disease, whether in the form of "Gonorrhea," or "Gleet," is eradicated by its use, with certainty and success, and the sufferer is restored to his usual health, without delay, or inconvenience. Tens of thousands of Parisians will attest to the truth of these remarks, and it is confidently recommended to the afflicted, as the best and surest remedy for the disease, and the most efficacious.

The secret has hitherto been confined to France and Italy. It is now for the first time introduced by way of "New Orleans" to the American public, and is sold, in this city, only by Dr. J. H. LESAGE, 48 Ann Street, opposite Merchants' Row, near the Market, by E. H. THAYER, Druggist.

It is particularly recommended to sea-faring men as containing no portion of Mercury, whereby so many have been disabled from service on board ship.

The "Eradicator" is found to give immediate relief to those afflicted with "stricture," "whites," and "discharges of the prostate gland."

INDIGESTION, JAUNDICE AND BILIOUS COMPLAINTS. ANDERSON'S VEGETABLE ELIXIR, for Dyspepsia, Indigestion, Jaundice and Bilious Complaints, weakness of the Stomach and Bowels, and consequent loss of appetite; nervous complaints, headache, sour stomach, flatulence and habitual constipation.

This medicine is composed entirely of vegetable substances perfectly safe in its operation, and may be given to children or persons of the most delicate habit, without the least risk of inconvenience.

The uniform success which has attended the use of it where it has been extensively used, in Boston and various other parts of the United States, and in the West Indies, attested by distinguished and highly respectable persons, affords, next to a trial of the medicine itself, the best commentary upon its virtues, and the best recommendation which can be offered to those who are acquainted with it.

Extract of a letter received from a gentleman in Boston, who had suffered severely from indigestion for three years. "During this time, I suffered very much from mental depression, constant pain in the head and breast, and, side, sharp shooting pains over almost the whole system—the food that I ate seemed to pass into my lungs and there remain, giving me great pain as attended with a strong degree of heat. At times, I suffered so much from the pain of indigestion as to be confined to the bed for two or three days. During one of these most severe attacks I was induced by the advice of a friend to try your Vegetable Elixir. In the course of a few weeks I found myself much better, and by the time I had taken two bottles, considered myself wholly free from the complaint. I continue, on the least feeling of any thing like indigestion or pressure on the stomach, to take about a table spoonful of it, which, in the course of a few hours, completely restores me. It has had with me a very wonderful effect, in strengthening the stomach and invigorating the whole system, and judging by my own case, I consider it in all diseases connected with the digestive organs to be a very valuable medicine."

It has been found singularly efficacious in cases of the most obstinate headache.

Boston Truss Manufactory.

THE subscriber would respectfully direct the attention of the public, and of the medical profession, to his establishment at No. 63 Court street, and particularly to the attention of the eminent Surgeons, whose names he has the liberty to subjoin as evidence of the success which has attended his endeavours to improve the structure and enhance the utility of the Truss.

By his recent invention "The Anatomical Self-Regulating Truss," he believes that the desideratum so long attempted, has been obtained, as in this instrument, the convenience of adaptation, the certainty of direct compression, and the advantages derived from the fact, that the management of the Truss, whether regarding neatness or adjustment, is practicable by the patient, have been made abundantly manifest.

Relying upon the long established, and as he hopes, deservedly, high reputation of his manufactory, he trusts that the patronage of the community will continue.
